

Do you agree or disagree with these statements?

Experts are totally overrated.

Foxes are better than hedgehogs.

Changing your mind often is a sign of immaturity and lack of principles.

I trust myself above all others when it comes to making predictions about the future.

An overarching philosophy on life is an important part of becoming an adult.

It's very likely that civilization will end by nuclear war.

The West will never collapse like previous civilizations because...

Asking many people for their predictions isn't as good as having one person you trust.

Predictions based on artificial intelligence are more trustworthy than human predictions.

I'm a hedgehog

Asking many people for their predictions isn't as good as having one person you trust.

I'm a fox.

I predict that...
Do you agree?

If hedgehogs are close-minded and foxes are adaptable... What about these types of people?

